Weekly Report 04/22/2018-04/28/2018

Over the week, I worked on finalizing my portfolios, adding to my display board, preparing for my presentation and writing an assessment. I was very happy with my pace and being more ahead than I typically am with deadlines.

While writing my assessment, I got a helpful reminder on what my mentor and I went over in our mentor visit. This is extremely helpful as I will have my panel May 4th and needed to remember what I needed to prepare for the panel. As a result of emphasizing the preparation for the panel we discussed in the assessment, I have a few questions on the implementing of solutions and will conduct further research into different options to inquire about in the panel. In addition, I will get the names of the consultants who will be present in the panel to tailor my questions toward each consultant's expertise.

Next week, I plan on tailoring interview questions, presenting to my ISM peers and a class of middle school students, and conducting my panel. I feel the next week will be a little stressful, but I am pleased the presentations will be back to back, so I will not have to memorize my points and phrasing within the presentation again.
